OLIN SUFFERS FLOOD DAMAGE WHEN CATFISH CREEK OVERFLOWS ITS BANKS

June 1927 WASHES OUT RAILROAD ROAD BED; FLOODS GARDENS AND CAUSES OTHER DAMAGE

Heavy rains Monday afternoon and evening caused Catfish creek to overflow its bank and break through the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul right-of-way west of town, the water following the old creek bed through town.

Rain continued falling Monday shortly after dinner, and was almost continuous until after midnight. Mrs. Lura Stingley, who has charge of the local government weather station, reported that 6.3 inches of rain fell during that period.

More than $600 Damage to Railroad
Damage in the way of that done to gardens, corn fields and other crops can not be estimated. George Barnosky, road master of the local division of the Milwaukee, estimated that the damage caused to the roadbed would be in the vicinity of $600, but that did not include the claims that will be brought before the company for the delays in the shipping of live stock and other freight. The roadbed was washed out at intervals for a distance of about 1,000 feet.

Catfish threatened to cross the tracks immediately after supper, but receded when the rain slacked up a bit. Heavy continuous rains following that caused it to rise rapidly and about 9:30 it commenced breaking through and washing away the roadbed of the Milwaukee. By 11:00 the eastbound track had washed out so that it was impossible for eastbound traffic to continue.

By midnight the water was rushing down the old Catfish creek bed washing out gardens, carrying away woodpiles, filling cellars, and causing other destruction in its path.

Floods Many Gardens

The water overflowed the gardens of Will Lyons, Joe Clay, George McDonald, Charley Green, Guy Thomson, John Schultz, George Sherman, Walter Graf, J. W. Butler, George Vernon, Henry Beck, John Jurgensen, P. W. Scott, Henry Norr, Eldo Stingley, H. C. Mershon, Guy Macomber, Fred Lawson, Lynn Strait, O. Lindley, Nick Neilsen, N. A. Slife, Mrs. Henry Byrd, F. A. Weber, and others. North of the tracks the gardens of Ray Chatterton, Mrs. W. H. Haynor, Charley Cruise, N. S. Capron, and others were overflowed. The water had swept through the street and over the sidewalk east of the property occupied by Dr. A. M. Andresen with such force that radishes, turnips, and other similar vegetables were washed out of gardens above and lodged in the fence.

Cellars Full

All of the cellars of the houses in the path of the flood were filled, and others nearby suffered from seepage or back up through drains that were not closed. Water covered the floor for about three inches in the place owned by Mrs. Virginia Green, and now occupied by Mr. and Mrs. George Sherman. They had moved practically all of their household goods out, and the remainder was set up out of the way.

Water flooded the Fred Lawson garage, and would have ruined the large Lawson Buick had not the front end been pulled up and the rear set on blocks. The water got up to the running boards then.

Walnut Creek on Rampage

Commencing about 1:00 a. m., Walnut creek started rising rapidly, and at 2 o'clock it had reached the crest. Water ran into the cellars of about ten houses in the southwest part of town. By morning the water had receded. A few instances was heard where several had had a few chickens drowned. Jess Glenn reported that the water lacked but two feet of being as high as the last time, three years ago.

Send Two Work Trains

Two work trains from Marion and Savannah arrived yesterday morning about 8:00, and the five crews consisting of the section men of Morley, Olin, Hale, and two from Oxford Junction went to work filling in the washouts. The westbound track was the first one repaired, and number 3 due at 4:45 passed over it about 7:15. Shortly after dinner the eastbound track was opened to traffic.

Three of the local section men, Orvial McDonald, Oliver Lindley, Guy Coppess, and Section Boss W. W. Switzer went on duty Monday night about 10:00, and worked until 6:00 yesterday afternoon. Bernard Ottoway of Green Island aided Agent Carter.

Many Washouts Along Roads

Many washouts occurred in the roads, the largest one being on the Newport road between the L. A. Mc-

Cormick place and the one occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Hans Rohwedder. Part of the flood waters from Catfish creek went the north way, cutting across the road, and washing out a hole about 130 feet long at its greatest extremities, and averaging from 8 to ten feet deep.

Other washouts occurred just east of the Mino Zimmerman place, two along the road by the John Knight place, one east and one west of the Tom Jeans place, and one in the east and west road running past the Al Rummel and Fred Guhl Sr. places. The approach of a bridge near the Max Jurgensen place southwest of here was also washed out some.

Fence along the road south of town was torn out when Sibballs creek went out of its banks, and some was torn out east of town near the C. F. Mitchell place.

To Bridge Washout North of Town

Temporary bridges around the washout north of town are being laid, and will soon be opened for traffic. It is expected that the washout will be spanned with a wooden bridge, and possibly later on with a concrete one if the drainage project carries.

High water prevented the city pump from functioning, and Olin was without water yesterday. The water had filled the pump pit, which could not be drained until the water had receded.

George Henak, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Henak was born May 30, 1893 near Oxford Junction. On July 25, 1918, he left his town with the contingent of 19 boys for Camp Gordon, Ga. He sailed overseas, embarking on Sept. 12, 1918. He was taken sick with pneumonia following influenza and died somewhere in France on Sept. 29, 1918. Private Henak was the first Oxford Junction boy in the overseas casualty lists, though Gilbert Pavelka was killed in action the same day. Memorial services for Pri. Henak were held in the Lutheran Church at Oxford Junction after news of his death reached there. The services were under the direction of the Masonic Lodge of which he was a member.

JAMES IRVIN KAIRNS

James Irvin Kairns was one of the Anamosa boys who left on June 25, 1918 for Camp Dodge. He quickly developed efficiency in military training and was sent overseas. The influenza epidemic was raging when his contingent left America and soon after landing in France he was stricken with the malady and died on October 11, 1918. James was the second son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kairns and was born in Anamosa in 1892. A fine tribute to Private Kairns is contained in a letter to the boy's mother published in a local paper on Jan. 9th from the pen of Lieut. Wm. Banish of Co. C, 349th Infantry under whom Private Kairns served. The letter states that the dead soldier boy was one of the most popular and also the most faithful of the company. Private Kairns was buried at Faubach Le Haut near the American lines in Alsace. He is survived by his parents, one sister and four brothers, one of whom is in the service.

Private Harold Miner was killed in action on the battlefield in France, Oct. 14, 1918. He was a member of the Machine Gun Co., 168th Infantry, Rainbow division. He was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Miner of Olin. Harold was one of the first to offer his services to his loved land, enlisting at his home town of Olin, April 7, 1917, and left with the first contingent. Harold Miner was a genial, generous young man and was a favorite among the young people of his community. When the official news of his death arrived a short time after his death there were appropriate memorial services held at Olin Opera House. He is survived by his parents and their remaining family and by a large circle of friends who will long cherish the memory of one who willingly gave his life that we might enjoy the blessings of universal peace and liberty.

HAROLD MINER

Private William Worster Walters was one of the five Jones County boys to pass away at Camp Dodge during one week, his death occurring on Saturday, Oct. 12. He was the second of three sons of Mr. and Mrs. Jos. J. Walters of Cass Township. His father and uncle, Mr. Worster were with the boy at Camp Dodge during his illness. They highly praised the officials at the Camp Hospital for the solicitude shown the sick soldier boys and they expressed admiration for the brave women nurses who worked until exhausted to save the lives of our boys, many nurses working twelve and fifteen hours per day and never losing their cheerfulness. The terrible plague overtaxed the hospital force but they never faltered. William was one of the best young men of Jones County and was a favorite with all. The funeral was held from the family home in Cass and burial was in Riverside Cemetery an Anamosa.

JAMES NEILLY

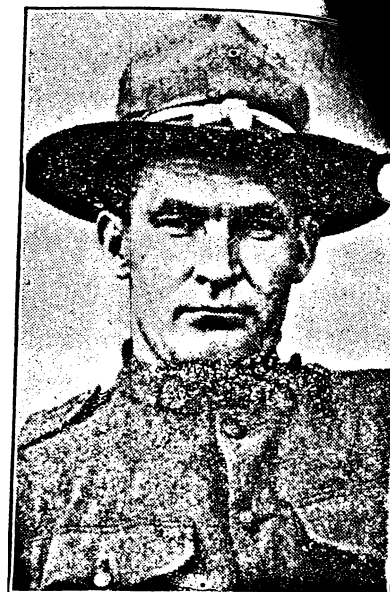

The first soldier boy of the World War to be buried in Jones County was Private James Neilly. Word was received here on Jan. 29, 1918, that Private Neilly had died in a training camp hospital in Texas. He was the youngest son of Thomas Neilly, an old veteran of the Civil War who resides in Buffalo township, Linn County, Iowa. James was a member of the National Army from the state of Washington where he had been residing for several years. The body was brought to Anamosa for burial and was attended by a local lodge, the Knights of Columbus of which order Private Neilly was a member, joining in the west. Burial was in the Cemetery in Anamosa. Private Neilly was a single man. The surviving relatives are his father and a number of brothers and sisters.

Albert Francis Moran of Onslow enlisted in the U. S. Navy on May 15, 1918, at the age of 22 years and 10 months. His death was caused by injuries suffered when a steam launch blew up from internal explosion on Oct. 3, severely scalding him. Albert was a son of Mr. and Mrs. William Moran of Clay township, Jones County, Iowa. The remains were brought back to the old home and burial was in the Cemetery at Temple Hill. Albert will be missed from the community where his entire life up to the date of enlistment had been spent. He was popular among all classes and was admired for his honorable, manly character.

ALFRED FRANCIS MORAN

Clarence Moore was one of the National Army from Jones County who met death in battle on the western front of the great world war. He was born near Canton, Jones County, Iowa, and registered at Olin when the call was issued for the first registration. He was sent to Camp Dodge for training in September, 1917, and later went overseas and was killed in battle on Oct. 6, 1918. He has relatives living near Canton and also at Olin. Private Moore was married but we have not a complete biographical sketch of his family. He was well and favorably known in the community where he was raised and his services in the war leaves rich heritage of memory to them and an example of willing sacrifice which is useful to all Americans.

LEO P. KOSTER

Private Leo P. Koster, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Koster of Cascade, Jones County, Iowa, went into service with the Selective Army on Sept. 15, 1918. Leo was born at Cascade, Iowa, on May 2, 1897, and was just past 21 years of age when he was called to service. He went with the other Jones County boys to Camp Dodge and became a member of Co. 50, 163rd Depot Brigade. At that time the influenza was sweeping the whole world and soon appeared at Camp Dodge. Leo was a victim of the epidemic and gave his young life on Oct. 10, 1918, at Camp Dodge Hospital from the effects of Influenza and Pneumonia. Burial was at his former home in Cascade, Iowa.

Harry Kidwell was born Feb. 12, 1893, in Fairview Township, Jones Co., son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kidwell. He enlisted after the outbreak of the war and was sent overseas where he was soon in active service on the fighting front. He was wounded in action Sept. 2, 1918, but the wounds proved not to be serious and Pri. Kidwell completely recovered. In a letter written last Christmas from Verdun he stated that his wounds were an injury to the leg and a slight touch of poison gas. He was then about to go with the army to Germany. Private Kidwell says that a companion by his side standing next to him was killed and he was struck by a piece of the shrapnel. He was in some of the most severe fighting.

Death of William G. Eilers.

Word was received last Thursday of the death of William G. Eilers, of Minneapolis. Mr. Eilers was the son of the late Gerhard Eilers, an old-time citizen of Lovell township. Mr. Eilers was a resident of Monticello for many years, where he was engaged in the dry goods business, successively a member of the firm of Hicks & Eilers and Eilers & Bolton. He sold his interests here a number of years ago in the dry goods store, which is now operated by W. A. Beery. Mr. Eilers was twice married. By his first wife now deceased, he had two children, Fred Eilers, of Cedar Rapids, and Mrs. Imogene Boss, of Monticello. Henry Eilers, brother, and Grant Eilers, nephew of the decedent, went to Minneapolis to attend the funeral. During the last several years of his life, Mr. Eilers was totally blind.

William G. Eilers was born in Monticello, Iowa, fifty-seven years ago. His boyhood was spent on his father's farm near Monticello. He attended the public schools for a number of years, but at an early age assumed a position with G. W. and G. L. Lovell. Later he entered the store of Charles Bidwell, where he remained until young manhood, and then entered the dry goods business in Monticello as hereinbefore stated, under the firm name of Hicks & Eilers. About fourteen years ago, Mr. Eilers went to Minneapolis and held a responsible position with the Donaldson Dry Goods company.

In 1910 Mr. Eilers married Miss Sarah E. Stoddard who survives him. Mr. Innes, who conducted his funeral writes, "Mr. Eilers had not been in good health for some years. Yet he was not idle and worked until near the end. He was taken sick about a week ago with what seemed to be pneumonia. He was removed to the Abbot hospital and gradually grew worse. The final diagnosis was that his illness was sleeping sickness. He died at the hospital last Thursday afternoon." Mr. Eilers was a good business man, industrious and capable. He had the faculty of making friends and holding them. Mr. Eilers was a member of the Presbyterian church of Monticello, Iowa. The funeral services were conducted Saturday afternoon by his former pastor, J. W. Innes, of Minneapolis, at 2 p. m. at the Lakewood chapel. Interment was made at the Lakewood cemetery of Minneapolis.

Henry Eilers says that Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Samels were very kind and attentive during the last illness and funeral of his brother.
